Notes on this exercise:

- Teams were instructed to draft a team of 2017 rookie-eligible players* given the roster restrictions above (any hitter can fill UT slot).
- Position eligibility, for batters: 20-game minimums at MiLB level in 2016, as well as most games played in MLB (if applicable). For pitchers: the five slots can be any combination of starters/relievers.
- Goal is to focus on 2017 impact at the major league level ONLY.
- To further the “2017 only” idea, we will play out this season as a competitive league with the following basic rules:
 - Traditional 5x5 scoring, with these adjusted categories to reflect the importance of playing time:
 - Batters: AB, BA, HR, RBI, SB.
 - Pitchers: IP, W, K, ERA, WHIP.
 - All players are “active” during the entire 2017 season, but only MLB stats count towards the 5x5 scoring and standings.
 - This a draft-and-hold league—the rosters above are the rosters for the entire season. No FA pickups, no trades, no injury replacements, etc.
 - BaseballHQ.com will administer the scoring.
 - The winner will be the team with the most cumulative points at the end of the season.
- Draft order was L to R on the grid above (Blessing, Link, Michaels, etc), and was a traditional serpentine. On the grid above the number in parentheses indicates round of the player selected; complete pick-by-pick order is on the back side of this sheet.

*Eligibility determined solely by the 130 AB/50 IP limits (IE, no service time stipulations)
